

Circ.: m. 82,722
S. 175,379

From Edn Other
Page Page Page

Date: JUL 15 1953

GLOBAL REPORT

Coup Heightens U.S.-Turkey Ties

By RENBERT JAMES
Military Editor, The Copley News Service and
The San Diego Union

The sudden military coup in U.S.-Turkish military partners Iraq came at a time when ship was laid in a series of U.S.-Turkish military coop secret meetings in Washington during the last three months. The chairman of the Turkish general staff, the Turkish navy commander-in-chief, and three Turkish Air Force generals were among the Washington visitors. Early in July the minister of defense, Elemer Menderes, spent 10 days in Washington talking with Pentagon experts and Allen W. Dulles, head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

James armed men — comprise by a large margin the most important military land force in the region to have centered mostly around Russia, and on planes.

Although the Turkish for improving radar installations army's main job is watching lions on the Russo-Turkish frontier, and the program could overwhelm any Arab military force that exists.

In addition to the Turkish But a complete analysis strength, military forces that military information, in the Western powers have to the region would have available in the Middle East necessary for useful include Britain's 37,000 men since Turkey's southern ally, the U.S. Sixth Fleet, which includes about 300 U.S. marines. Syrian and Iraqi bases

